ABOUT POLICE SCIENCE

The mission of ANZSEBP is to develop, disseminate and advocate for police to use scientific research (“the evidence”) to guide best practice in all aspects of policing. The SEBP is made up of police officers, police staff and research professionals who aim to make evidence based police practice part of everyday policing. We believe that all aspects of policing including police patrols, investigations, crime prevention, human resource management and all other forms of service delivery should be evaluated using sound scientific methods.
